Case study on unsupervised learning

Try out different clustering models in the given dataset. Find the optimum number of clusters in each model and create the model with optimum number of clusters. Also learn about dB scan clustering and implement it

Please note the following:

Give heading to each step you are doing

Keep your name as the file name